Dear Larry:

I regret the delay in answering your letter of January 8. Your father also mentioned to me your interest in this general subject and told me about your new and important publishing enterprise.

Just at the moment, I have nothing very concrete in my own mind, but I shall certainly not forget your thought and hope that we can have an occasion possibly, when you are in Washington or I am in New York, to hear more about your work.

Sincerely,

Allen W. Dulles
